

BIENVENIDOS A BARBUE!

At the beginning of the 20th century, this room housed the ticket office for Royal Holland Lloyd, selling emigration voyages to those looking to cross the oceans to start their lives anew in South America. Those that made the journey brought with them the flavours and traditions of Europe which were quickly adapted into Argentinean life.

This sharing of cultures between Europe and South America, this melting pot of influence and ideas led to the unique way of making drinks found in the 'bares notables' of Buenos Aires – part Italian aperitivo, part Spanish 'hora de vermut' – simple, elegant, ingredient focussed drinks, centred around a collection of local and regional vermouths, fortified wines, and bitters, colloquially known as 'amargos'.

Today we celebrate this golden age of Buenos Aires drinking, the cocktails that came out of it, and the talented cantineros
